

Camphill Community Glenraig

Thinking of volunteering?

In Camphill Community Glenraig we are looking for enthusiastic and creative individuals aged 18 and over, who would like to contribute to our rich and vibrant community life. Glenraig is situated on a beautiful estate on the southern shore of Belfast Lough in Northern Ireland.

Together with long term co-workers, their families, employees and volunteers from around the world, you will live with, accompany and support adults with special needs and explore together what it means to bring joy, purpose and meaning into daily life.

Many of our volunteers from overseas also take this opportunity to travel around the Island of Ireland and discover beautiful cities, landscapes and a rich cultural life.

If you're local to our community, why not expand your horizon by volunteering with us before you make your next big move?

Are you interested in helping to create a homely environment in a house community? Being part of our creative and land-based workshops?

If the answer is yes,
please write to: volunteer@glenraig.org.uk

Joining Camphill Community Glenraig can be a very fulfilling, transformative and rewarding experience.
